

HER WEDDING GOWN WASN'T A SHIELD

A past, present, or future relationship is never an open door to violence or homicide

ONE WOMAN'S MARCH TO A GLOBAL MOVEMENT

On September 26, 1999, Gladys Ricart was murdered on her wedding day by a former partner—a tragedy that forever changed countless lives. Refusing to let Gladys's story end there, our Founder, Josie Ashton, put on a wedding gown and walked 1,900 miles in protest, inspiring The Brides' March—an international movement dedicated to ending intimate partner violence, honoring survivors, supporting families, and helping communities build a future free from violence.

*26 Years—
Still Marching Forward*

FIND YOUR PLACE IN THE MOVEMENT

MARCH WITH US

Join survivors, families, advocates, and allies on September 26.

March With Us →

HOST A MARCH

Bring The Brides' March to your community. We provide the training, tools, and support.

Host a March →

SUPPORT THE MISSION

Your donation helps prevent violence, support survivors, and grow the movement.

Donate Today →

BECOME A PARTNER

Volunteer, sponsor, or partner as an individual, business, nonprofit, or foundation.

Partner With Us →

bridesmarch.com

bridesmarch.com/participate